- Review Chapter on School Climate - How do current parents contribute to a positive school climate and strengthen the sense of community on which institutional health depends? Reflect on what sustains and strengthens the school's climate and community and what its vulnerabilities might be. If a group of current constituents set out to undermine the school's community, how difficult would it be? What steps could be taken to reduce the school's vulnerability in this area? Reflect on a time in the last six years when the climate of the school became significantly challenging. Describe the process used to identify and address the problems that arose.
